Hi Andrew,

My apologies in the delay in responding to your mail.

Kindly find attached the BID for all 3 projects.

I currently do not have a KML of all the affected watercourses but I will send them to you in due course. I currently have our GIS specialist compiling the KMLs as per your request.

Should you have any further comments or queries please feel free to contact me.

Subject: On-line microbial monitoring

Good day Cheyenne,

Thank you for returning my call this morning.

As discussed, please find attached more information on our on-line microbial analyser.

The Coliminder has proven itself to be effective in detecting microbial contamination in various water sources. The application where it is utilised most is in WWTP's but with companies, water utilities and municipalities all over the world has installed it at drinking water plants and surface water monitoring sites. Please see the following link of published paper where the effectiveness of on-line surface monitoring is discussed -

<https://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/abs/pii/S0043135419300211?dgcid=author>

The big advantage of our system is the generation of data over a period of time (timeline data) that tells a story of the water system and that can be used to make informative decisions, either from a process point of view or from a contamination detection point of view. Our system can provide results in as little as 15 minutes.

I have attached some specifications and brochures for your information.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Groete / Best regards,
